social life in the city was almost devoid of insocial life in the Scarcely a familiar face was vis-cident last week. Scarcely a familiar face was vis-thle in the Park or Delmonico's, and club windows are naturally deserted, as there is nothing piquant or interesting to be seen from them. The water-ing places are still in a condition of expectancy. the season at Newport is supposed to open with the arrival of the band and the regular morning concerts and weekly dances, then it should already be in full swing. On the contrary it is rather quiet, but affairs are shaping themselves for a pleasant season, with as much fun as is good for anyone.

There will be plenty of reasonable diversions, so that the predictions for dulness and inactivity common sense. How can a place like Newport dull, where a large number of the best society f the country are gathered together, and where the wealth of the residents provides ample means indulge their taste and inclination for amuse ments? The golf and polo games and the pony paces next month will make a difference, as the ds not only furnish a delightful meeting place, but it arouses a common interest in th rames and sport, and brings together the most desirable male element that society can supply for the indoor entertainments that are expected to

It was in honor of their daughter, Miss Ethel Davies, who, with of their daughter, allss Editer Davies, who, with her mother, received the guests. There was no cotilion, the dancing being informal. Some of the young people present were Miss Fanny Whitepuse, Miss Hoffman, Miss Datsy Post, Miss Esther Cleveland, Miss Edith Capp, Miss Sybil Sherman, Miss Lillie Whitehouse, Miss Isabelle Perkins, Miss Sargent, Jack Livermore, Melton Barger, Winthrop, Abbott Vanderbilt and William Post, the day before this, Miss Davies entermined a number of young people at luncheon.

There was an unusual number of dinner parties and luncheons, including one given by Mrs. Will-Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton. Others who entertained at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt. Mr. and Mrs. W. Watts Sherman, Mrs. W. H. Osgood, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton Cutting, whose guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Suydam, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Kernochan and Mrs. William Grosvenor. The Casino dances have been well attended, but not crowded, as they probably will be in a week or two. The wedding of of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Both were quiet affairs, the guests being largely relatives of the young people. A pretty wedding in town was that of Miss Florence Ogden Henry, the niece of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Rainey, of No. 249 Lexing-ton-awe.. to Emil Antony, which took place in St. Bertholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, on Wednesday afternoon. The bride, who is the child of the late Charles Tigh Henry, of this city, is an extremely pretty girl. She has just reached her nineteenth year. Her mother, who Ogden, of this city, died over eighteen years ago Antony's great-grandfather was an officer of Mr. Antony's great-grandiather was an officer of a cavalry regiment under Napoleon, and was with him at the burning of Moscow. Mr. Antony is a skilled equestrian, and is popular in riding circles in this city. While many friends of the pair were at the church, only the relatives and a few close friends were bidden to the reception, which was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Rainey, with whom the bride has lived since the death of her mother. The morning after the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Antony were seated on the pinzza of Cranston's Hotel, West Point, waiting for the carriages, when, to their utter amazement and confusion, the band struck up the wedding march, and for the next few minutes Mr. and Mrs. Antony were the most stared at man and woman in that part of the The young pair were recognized from their pictures, which appeared in The Tribune of Thursday morning. HE DEFEATS MALCOLM CHACE IN THE SEA-BRIGHT TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Seabright, N. J., July 14 (Special).-William Lacned, of Cornell, won the championship in the Seabright tennis tournament this afternoon, defeating Malcolm Chace, of Brown, by a score of 5-7, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3. The score, however, does not indicate the relative playing of the men, as Chace put up a sharp, skilful game, and Larned was hard pushed all through. The latter played his old-time back court game, coming to the net seldom; but when he did come it was with deadly effect on the Providence man. Chace also hung on the service lines, and couldn't be conxed forward, for his net play during the week has been wild, and he knew was dangerous to use it. Larned was a hot favorite from the outset, though many considered Chace's recent victory at Tuxedo a strong point in

The play began with Chace in the lead, where he remained through the set, though closely followed by Larned. The score was 1-6. Larned then made a strong effort and rallied, playing at times in brilliant style and leaving Chaee far in the stretch. This set was 6-2 in his favor, and the next proved a repetition of it, though not so much of a waik-over, for Chaee began to realize that the champlanship was going the wrong way, and braced up wonderfully, so that when his opponent finally took the set it was 7-5. The final set of the afternoon was played after a brief intermission, during which a little reception was held in the clubbouse, and decided the champlonship for another year. The failure to get either of the preceding sets was too much for Chaee, and, though he made a good fight, Larned took the last set easily, 6-3.

The doubles between Foote and Howland and V. G. Hail and Chace went by default earlier in the day to the former team, as Hail did not appear when time was called. The summaries: by Larned. The score was 1-5. Larned then made

THREE BANK ROBBERS KILLED.

SHOT BY DEPUTY MARSHALS IN A FIGHT IN TEXAS.

Dallas, Tex., July 14.-Information was received here this morning by U. S. Marshal Williams, at iam Astor, on Tuesday, in honor of her daughter, | by United States deputies. Two are said positively weeks ago, but the Marshal's office will give out no weeks ago, but the Marshal's office will give out no information. Three or four days ago four men started for Texas from the Indian Territory, with one or two women in the party. They crossed and recrossed the Red River several times to confuse the trail. Deputy marshals followed them. The men were supposed to be making for Clarksville to rob the Red River County Bank or the bank at Detroita. The marshals came upon them this morning in camp and attempted to arrest them. They made a fight and three were killed and a fourth captured. Their bodies will be brought to Paris.

THAT SOUTHERN TARIFF CONFERENCE.

EMINENTLY FITTING, OF COURSE.

From The Boston Journal.

From The Boston Journal.

How could "tariff reform" be more fittingly embodied in our National legislation than by the lineal descendants of the men who were its original sponsors? The fine sense of propriety which has intrusted the duty exclusively to Southern Senators and Representatives cannot be too highly commended by persons of discriminating intelligence. THE SENATE WILL PREVAIL

From The Omaha Bee.

A few minor concessions, in accord with the "fundamental principles of Democratic policy," the House conferrees will probably be able to secure, but there is small reason to doubt that the bill as it came from the Senate will finally be adopted without important or material changes.

BOTH HOUSES ON TRIAL

From The Philadelphia Press.

Both sides to this conference are put on trial. If the House confereres linist upon free coal and free iron ore without insisting upon free sugar, they brand themselves as pliant accomplices in the gigantic crime of the Sugar Trust. If the Senate conferees abandon all protection except that for the Sugar Trust, they show that the concession of the Senate to the industrial interests was only a confidence game. In either event the battle must be taken from the committee to the two chambers. The struggle is not yet over.

HIS OWN MEDDLING UNCALLED FOR. From The Chicago Record. Senator Gorman now comes forward to demand that the House do not meddle with the tariff amendments of the Senate. There is a general demand on the part of the public that Senator Gorman should do considerably less meddling himself.

LITTLE BESIDES TALK.

From The Troy Times.

There are indications that the "progress" reported by the Democratic members of the Conference Committee on the Tariff bill is progress mainly in talk. The little leaking out from the secret meetings is to the effect that the representatives of each house are disposed to insist upon their respective bills, being prompted to that by the fear of losing a majority for the compromise measure.

From The Albany Express.

Mr. Cleveland and Chairman Wilson are again holding anxious conferences over the Tariff bill. They held many conferences before the bill was sent to the House, but did not succeed in framing a very good bill, notwithstanding their efforts.

When any sickness is on the way, the Duchess of Teck likes to rank herself as belonging to the nursing profession—at least by an old aspiration. For in her epic youth when, like every one else, she intended her life to be simple, unique and devoted, she imagined she had a mission for nursing. She did not intend to do by haives what she would very willingly have renounced the world to do with her whole heart. But the idea of a lady's devotion to nursing as an occupation was a startling one in the middle of the century; and the Queen, who influenced by it, refused affectionately but firmly her consent to ther cousting project for a career. Her Majesty even used the word "unwomanly" in describing that career, from which one may suppose that Florence Nightingale and her band had Her Makens that dareer, from and her band had pose that Florence Nightingale and her band had pose that Florence Nightingale and her band had not yet given a decorous poetry to nursing as a not yet given a decorous poetry to nursing as a not yet given a decorous poetry to nursing as a not yet given also judged that the young Princess could not be spared. Cleveland, Ohio, July 14.-The Christian Endeavor delegates have taken complete possession of the winds. They make the town ring from one end to the other, day and night, with the melody of their songs. They sing on the street-cars, in the streets and on the way to the great meetings, and people in the city are taking so kindly to the wearers of the little yellow and white badges that Cleveland will be sorry when they are gone.

In the big tent, before the opening of the regular exercises, there was a loud vocal contest of States. RAILROAD INTERESTS.

SUIT BROUGHT BY HARVEY FISK & SONS. Suit has just been begun in the United States Circuit Court by Harvey Pisk & Sons, bankers, of this city, to recover $11.30 from the Evansville and Haute Railroad Company, interest on 570 $1,000 bonds of the Evansytile and Richmond Rail-$1,000 bonds of the Evansville and Richmond Rattroad Company, which was guaranteed by the Evansville and Terre Haute company. The bonds are coupon bonds, payable on September 1, 1921, and before 1832 were held by the Evansville and Terre Haute company. Early in 1891 Harvey Fisk & Sons obtained possession of the 570 bonds in question and received the interest at 5 per cent a year semi-annually, until March 1, 1854, when the Evansville and Richmond company failed to pay. The Evansville and Terre Haute Railroad Company was appealed to for payment, and, on its failure to do so after a reasonable length of time, it was decided to bring suit.

St. Paul, July 14.-In the Retail Clerks' National Convention yesterday, the committee to which had Convention yesterday, the committee to which had been referred various matters, reported as follows:

"Matters referring to independent political action should be rejected. While we admit that amelioration can be had through the ballot box, we think that the interest of our organization is best served by ignoring political action entirely as a body. This does not deprive any individual of independent political action.

"We fully agree that strikes and riots are not within keeping of American principles, and we oppose them. We believe that the conditions of the wage-earners can be best improved, and difficulties settled by arbitration. We, therefore, recommend the indorsement of compulsory State and National arbitration throughout our land."

A PRINCE WITHOUT A TITLE. From The Pall Mall Budget.

From The Pall Mail Budget.

Some of the less-informed papers have already discovered that the Royal infant will at once be created an earl, and have even selected the title. I am not acquainted with Her Majesty's intentions, but I have observed that she usually adheres to precedent, and that no member of the Royal family, from the Black Prince downward, has ever been created a peer in infancy, and that none has received a peerage less than a dukedom. The young Prince is not even a Royal Highness, that title being limited apparently to the children of the sovereign and the children of the sovereign's sons. No English sovereign before Queen Victoria ever saw great-grand-children, though George III would have done so had the Princess Charlotte's child lived; and very few lived to see grandchildren.

Scores of postal cards are sent every week to anxious parents, recounting the good times—the walk to the mountains, the swim in the lake, the swing in the score, the seesaw the romp in the barn, the football, the games indoors and the food. Like the tenement-house woman who exclaimed when she this were the place many instances could be given to strengthen this statement.

The helpful spirit manifested by the family of Mr. Parsons is seen in those upon whom the care of the children directly falls. The five Henry Bassler, an assistant last year, is in charge this summer. "Mr. Harry," the children call him, and he is the centre of a group whenever he appears on the grounds of in the halts. Mr. Bassler's mather is the matron and the mother of all the children. The sore finger and the broken heart of the homesick girl are bound up by Mrs. Bassler. The boy who is hungry and the one who oversats both receive her attention. A younger son, C. Hyde Bassler, and Frank Dechan assist with the boys and sleep in the building which they occupy. Two young ladles, Mus Edith Gladwin and Miss Myrth Irvine, have charge of the girls. They accompany them in their waiss, Join in their games, help them with their letter-writing, teach them how to make their beds, sing with them and Miss Gladwin, a kindergarder, leads the company in the singing. Before each meal grace is sung, and before the evening meal from ten to fifteen minutes are epent in singing hymns and patrioth sons. "My Country, Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty," is the song which the loyal children love most and sing most frequently. Scarcely a day passes that several carriages are not at the door. The Lenox and Stockbridge people enjoy seeing and hearing the little visitors, and many a dollar is left with the mansager to increase, if possible, their happiness.

One lack is seen in St. Helen's Home, and only one. There should be in some place where every call doould see it the portrait of the beautiful young woman in whose honor this munificent work was instituted and is so nobly carried on. The story of the life of Miss Helen Parsons, devoted as she was to the interests of the poor, would be an incentive to similar devotton, an inspiration to many to spend their lives as she did hers in doing good to those needing a friend. "Harper's Weekly" of the 20th uit says:

"The movement for a straight municipal ticket is seinsh and reckess partisanship. Such a texet is demanded by Patt and Milholand, because they are desirous of maintaining Tammany's control of the city government."

A more insulting and reckless mendacity than the above can hardly be expressed in the same number of words. It is a lie—and, coming from such a source, an insulting lie—against both. Can "Harper's Weekly" give one fact on which to base this personal slander? We defy the writer of the above to do so. "Harper's Weekly" has, in one form or another, been supporting Tammany for years, while at the same time occasionally pointing out some of its wickedness. Now, Tammany is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man in the city, and on this account, seeing the danger gathering around its old friends, it insists on a mongrel ticket for the next municipal election. The chief officers must be Democratic party in the city, including Tammany, will be wiped out. If a mongrel ticket is elected, the Democratic party in the city, including Tammany, will be out, where they are now, and have been, through the efforts of "Harper's Weekly" in connection with Tammany Hail.

Mr. Pistt and Mr. Milholland insist that the Republicans shall run a straight Republican ticket. "Harper's Weekly" and that Democratic party shall set up, and who shall say which shall be the more corrupt—the old or the new? The Republicans, except a few timorous, insist on a clean Republican Tammany Hail.

This faction of the Democratic party insists on this policy, "Harper's Weekly" and that Democratic ket, and because Platt and Milholland insist on this policy, "Harper's Weekly" directly charges that these gentlemen are in favor of sustaining Tammany Hail.

It will be seen that in the notice published in last night's "Gazette" as to the general form of thanks-giving for the birth of a young Frince, the old form is preserved and that it is to be used in all churches and chapels in England and Wales "and in the town of Berwick-on-Tweed." The announcement recails the curious history of this old town; how while England and Scotland were at variance it belonged first to one and then to another, until Henry VIII made it independent of both countries—a curious isolation which it long preserved, possessing a chancellor, a chamberlain, and other officers of a kingdom's, rather than a borough's, state. This was put an end to by the Municipal Reform Act, and the name of Berwick-on-Tweed ceased to appear as it had formerly done on all acts of Parliament. It is presumably an oversight that it has not disappeared from these notices also.

Morgan Jones, who died at his home, No., 122 East Flfty-sixth-st., on Friday, was born in England in 1830. When he was only three years old his parents brought him to this country, and he grew to mansition, working as a machinist in plumbing and gas fitting, but rapidly rose, and, outstripping his tellows, established his own firm at No. 67 Centre-st. Here he carried on a profitable business until twelve years ago, when he was obliged to retire from active business life. His health falled utterly, and for the last three years he left his home only a few times. Patient and uncomplaining in his sickness, he more than endeared himself to his children, and while his death was not unexpected it is severely felt by them. One year ago his wife died, and from that time Mr. Jones's decline was rapid. He was a Councilman in New-York in 1862, and later was a Councilman in New-York in 1862, and later was President of the Board of Aldermen, which place he held for one year. In 1865 he was a member, of Congress, and served one term. The funeral will be held to-morrow at St. Agnes's Roman Catholic Church, and the burlal will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The pallbearers have not yet been selected. lows, established his own firm at No. 67 Centre-st.

JACOB C. BLAUVELT.

Jacob C. Blauvelt died at his home, No. 330 West Eleventh-st., on Friday night. He was one of the oldest residents in the "old Ninth Ward," having occupied his home for over fifty years. He was born in Rockland County on November 9, 1812. His birthplace was then known as Blauvelle, and the name was afterward changed to Blauvelt. In 1835 name was afterward changed to Blauvelt. In 1855 Mr. Blauvelt came to New-York and engaged in the lumber business. He entered the firm of Garrett and Edward Green, whose yard was then at the fost of Horatio-st. He accumulated considerable money, and five years ago retired from active business life. The last years of his life he spent quietly at his home. He belonged to no clubs or societies and was prominently identified with the work of the Christian Reformed Church, in Bankst., near his home. He was treasurer of the church, and devoted much of his time to furthering its interests. A son and two daughters, all married survive him. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at his home at 9:30 o'clock, and the burial will be at Bergein Fields. N. J. The Rev. Harvey Iserman, of the Christian Reformed Church, will officiate.

Mr. Becher was forty-seven years old, and leaves a widow and two children. For twenty-eight years he was foreman in August Buerman's saddiery hardware factory.

WORLD'S BICYCLE RECORDS BROKEN.

JULIAN P. BLISS'S SURPRISING SPEED ON THE WALTHAM TRACK.

Waltham, Mass., July 14. Several world's bleythe records were broken at the meet on the Waltham track this afternoon. The meet had been arranged in order to enable the Chicago riders to try to lower the world's mile record of Class B-136-held by John Johnson, of Syracuse, for this same track, and of Class A-2:03-made here by Arthur Porter, of Waltham. Both attempts suc-ceeded. More than that, there were broken the world's tandem record, the two-thirds and three quarter mile world's record, and also Harry Ty-ler's world's mile record, with standing start, of 2:03 2-5. Julian P. Bliss, of Chicago, was the man who performed the major part of these wonderful feats of speed, paced by three teams of tandems of fast Class B men.

The first trial was by Bilss, with flying start, for mile. The pacemakers were Githens and Lums-of Chicago; Brendt, of New-York; McDuffee, of Maiden, and Cutter and L. Berlo, of Boston, who had been encamped for a week on the Waltham Park, practising picking up their man at record speed, and it was to this practice that Bliss owes Chicago boy, whose wheel clung within a foot of their rear tire. He made the first quarter in 28-15 seconds, the half in 25-3-5, and the mile in 154-45 seconds, the half in 25-3-5, and the mile in 154-45 seconds is seen than the previous which is 14-5 seconds firster than the previous word's record. All the distances above the half-mile are new world's records.

Then Nathan Hutler, of Cambridgeport, Mass., Then Nathan Hutler, of Cambridgeport, Mass., and Williams on a tandem and James Clark of 200, held by Porter. He was posed by Haggerty and Williams on a tandem and James Clark of Hoston on a single wheel. He lowered the record to 201-15, with flying start. His quarters were 0.30, 0.58 i-5, 133 and 2.00 i-5. C. G. Williams and F. M. Haggerty, of Waltham, lowered the mile tandem record, flying start, to 1.08-3-5, doing it unpaced. Although they are Class A men, this is better than all Class B or professional tandem records. Hiss wound up by breaking another world's record, that of Tyler for a mile with standing start and pacemakers. Tyler did it in 2.02-2.5 Elies in 2 minutes even time. The quarters were 0.32, 1.02, 1.31 i-5 and

LONG-DISTANCE WORLD'S RECORD LOW-ERED.

Detroit, July 14 F. F. Herrick and C. H. Barthel, of the Detroit Wheelmen, went against the wenty-five and fifty-mile road records over the Belle Isle course this morning, and both succeeded in smashing the world's road record for the twenty-five miles, 109.251-5, made by W. Grant over the same course on June 16. The distance was made to-day in 1.07.641-5. Barthel went for the fifty-mile road record, and covered the distance in 2.21.351-5, which makes a new record.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 14. The annual meet of the New-Jersey Division of the League of Ameri-can Wheelmen ended gloriously to-day. There was a parade in the morning, and in the afternoon the mal racing events. Handsome prizes brought out final racing events. Handsome prizes brought out the best endeavors of the cracks, and close and exciting races resulted. Raymond MacDonaid and W. J. Edwards were still to severely injured by yesterday's accident to ride. There were spills in several races, one of them, in a trial heat of the Class A handicap, brought down five men, and F. A. Hendricks was badly shaken up. In the Class B half-mile open, C. M. Murphy and Steenson were disqualified for obvious team work and pacing. The summary follows:

A NEW CHICAGO INDUSTRY.

From The Chicako Tribune.

A young man whose ingenuity deserves a better return is picking up a living in a novel manner at State and Madison sts. He bears all the outward signs of poverty and the general appearance of a street waif is relieved only by the almost pathetic tenderness in his wasted face. His employment was suggested to him one rainy afternoon when he was standing at the northwest corner of the two streets named looking idly at the passing cable trains. It was 5 o'clock and the structs were filled with people hurrying to their homes. An elderly woman with arms filled with bundles had tried vainly to board a westbound cable and had found all the seats and even standing-room absorbed by the lime the trains rounded the corner from Madison into State-st. The boy's attention was attracted to her distress, which was exaggerated by the necessity of carrying an umbrella. He stepped up to her and said politely:

"Madam, I will get you a seat. I will go down Madison-st, and get on the train and will wave my hand to you as it comes around the corner. Then you can get on and take the seat."

The woman had barely time to comprehend the boy's plan before he was off. One train, crowded to the rails, passed and she saw his face distinctly for the first time, and with a haif apology pressed a quarter into his hand.

The boy saw in this incident a possibility that he was shrewd enough to turn to account. He thereafter haunted the corner on raifny days, watching for women with bundles, and finally extended his vigil to pleasant days. His success was variable for a time, but gradually the regular contingent of downtown shoppers learned to know him and he built up a large cliente.

The usual tip he gets now for his efforts is 5 cents. He is occasionally taken from his regular station by a special call on some other line. Then he gets double pay and more.

"Business is getting brisk," he said yesterday
